Greetings from Verdant

At the Verdant Health Commission, we continue to listen and learn from you, the communities that we serve, to better understand how we can increase your access to healthcare services. Feedback from more than 500 residents, as part of our 2022 Community Health Needs Assessment, guided commissioners in 2023 and their decisions to invest more than $8.1 million in community health programs and services for residents with limited or no health insurance. These investments aligned with our priority areas of focus: Healthcare Access, Food Security and Mental Health and we funded 54 community partners to provide these frontline services. This report highlights how together, we worked to address the health and wellness challenges in our communities. As stewards of public funds, we believe that it is important to report back to you on the progress that has been made and we recognize that there is more to do to serve our growing community. On the following pages, you will find impact stories and information about our work.

Wishing you good health,

Karianna Wilson, Board President

Verdant Partner Highlights

Since 1974, Homage has provided vital services to older adults and people with disabilities all over Snohomish County. Through programs focused on food and nutrition, home repair, health and wellness, and rural transportation, Homage promotes independence, preserves dignity, and improves quality of life for their clients. In 2023, Verdant Health Commission partnered with Homage to provide meals and increase access to mental health services for older adults and adults with disabilities in the Verdant service area. Last year, Homage served almost 400,000 meals to more than 4,100 community members and supported 752 clients through mental health services.

The mission of the Lynnwood Food Bank (LFB) is to assist people who are hungry in the city of Lynnwood and South Snohomish County by providing a highly efficient food distribution center. In 2023, the organization distributed more than five million pounds of food to almost 152,000 individuals. Verdant Health Commission partnered with LFB in this work, awarding grant funds to support the purchase of fresh fruits and vegetables, culturally specific foods, and an interpretation system to ensure nutrition workshops could occur in two languages simultaneously. We also supported LFB's work to facilitate healthy lifestyle workshops on topics like Growing Food in Your Backyard/Patio and Promoting Resilience to Those New to America.

Throughout 2023, Verdant Health Commission was proud to partner with the Edmonds School District (ESD) and Community Health Center of Snohomish County (CHC) to increase access to healthcare for students. Together, we were able to launch Snohomish County's first School Based Health Centers (SBHC). Located at Meadowdale High School and Mountlake Terrace High School, the SBHCs provide a host of on campus medical services, including vaccine clinics. This work has greatly decreased the number of students out of compliance with vaccine requirements and reduced barriers to care. School Based Health Centers typically serve 250 students a year with 750 total patient visits.

Founded in Bothell in 2015, UTSAV is a culturally specific, community powered service organization led by and serving South Asians in the State of Washington. The organization is actively leading powerful work to advance equity in our communities. They provide culturally competent and linguistically accessible services focused on food security, affordable housing, mutual aid, health services, education, and advocacy. In 2023, Verdant Health Commission partnered with UTSAV to help increase patient access to healthcare, including mental health support, for the South Asian population living in South Snohomish County. In 2023 UTSAV has supported over 600 families and individuals.

Since 1983, the Korean Community Service Center (KCSC) has been serving Korean American immigrants. The organization works to promote the health and well-being of the Korean American community in a culturally and linguistically appropriate environment. They offer local, grassroots support to the community through education, support services, advocacy, and community building. Each year, KCSC serves approximately 6,500 Korean Americans, about 45% of whom are South Snohomish County residents. Verdant Health Commission collaborated with KCSC throughout 2023, helping to provide mental health services and increase access to culturally specific foods.

Washington West African Center (WAWAC) works to support West Africans across Washington State with a particular focus on Snohomish County. Located in Lynnwood, WAWAC's office and Drop-In Center serves as a one-stop hub where members of the West African community can access culturally appropriate, wrap-around services. In 2023, WAWAC served 3,000 community members through a variety of programs, including rental assistance and bill payment, transportation services, language interpretation, kids programs, and senior support. Over the last year, Verdant Health Commission worked alongside WAWAC to support programming at the Drop-In Center, including the development of several wellness programs such as cooking classes, system navigation support, and an ESL program.
